

Net neutrality is a key to internet freedom. Killing it is another example of pandering to powerful companies. I can't even believe I still have to fight for this